Portfolio review with Wells Fargo Advisors (Mick Pepper)

- Government debt load high, but as percentage of household debt, no different than the '80s
- President treating government as a company and doing what a CEO would do to achieve a turnaround
- What about tariffs?
  - Inflationary in short term
  - Companies adjust by pre-buying and getting like goods from different countries
  - Will not necessarily lead to weaker economy
  - May be being used to bring manufacturing back to USA, but will 4 years be enough time?
- What about recession?
  - First quarter (Q1) 2025 GDP may drop but should not run into second quarter
  - Recession may occur in Q2 but not necessarily because of tariffs
  - We overcooked economy during Covid so new influx of cash by government not likely
- Cautious looking forward – looking for positive returns around 7% for 2025
  - There will be volatility
- Current mix of assets: 54% stocks, 28% fixed income, 10% cash, rest Alternatives and Specialty Assets
